

COMMISSIONERS CALL FOR DONAHAY'S SCALP

LIFE OF OHIO RELIEF SYSTEM TO END TONIGHT

All Workers May Automatically Be Jobless At Midnight

U. S. GOVERNMENT MAY ACT, REPORT

Gov. Davey Launches Bitter Attack On Senate G. O. P.

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28.—Charging Republican members of the state senate with "narrow and inhuman partisanship" in blocking emergency relief of the Ohio relief law, Governor Davey said today that "the whole power of the state government will be used to bridge the gap thus created."

The relief law expires at midnight tonight. Efforts of senate Democrats to obtain approval of the measure in the upper house were abandoned late yesterday when the Republicans, seeking to place all relief administration workers under civil service, defeated a clause to make the measure an emergency.

The governor termed this action of the senate Republicans "one of the most glaring examples of petty and inexcusable partisanship in the history of Ohio." Without the emergency clause, he said, the law could not become effective for 90 days.

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28.—Ohio's vast relief system, with a $10,000,000 monthly budget, was at the crossroads today.

The life of the state relief commission, which directs a wide-flung organization caring for the needy, expires at midnight.

Unconfirmed reports circulated about the state house that the federal government might step in and take over the administration of Ohio relief after midnight tonight.

At Washington Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins declined to comment.

The legislature late yesterday adjourned until Tuesday, without re-enacting a law continuing the commission's existence.

Jobs Will End

The full significance of a situation was a matter of conjecture. Observers say the hundreds of employees in the relief service automatically will become jobless and that the way will be left open for new appointments.

Acting to meet the emergency, William A. Walls, state relief director, held a long conference with Governor Davey, who promised a statement today.

Governor Davey announced he will begin an investigation of the relief administration "to show the public just what conditions are."

"I think," he added, "the public will be appalled at the waste."

He said he was not in a position to announce who will conduct the inquiry, but emphasized the purpose of this investigation is not to give jobs to the Democrats.

Earlier, Rep. Philips (R) of Athens county, had told the house that the administration of relief "is a disgrace and is encouraging people to be lazy."

Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable Win Acting Awards

Co-Stars of "It Happened One Night" Given Honors At Banquet In Hollywood

(By Associated Press) HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 28.—Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable were acclaimed by the movie world today for the best acting performances on the screen in 1934.

The two co-stars of "It Happened One Night," were singled out for the honor in annual awards voted last night by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Other film notables were tendered awards for acting, directing, producing and other outstanding achievements in the past year.

Greatest applause from the thousands of the film colony's elite who attended the Academy's annual banquet, however, was reserved for little Shirley Temple, who received a special award.

The picture, "It Happened One Night," a cleverly fashioned but simply-told story of a boy and a girl, was the vehicle on which others besides Miss Colbert and Gable rode to acclaim.

It brought the year's screen writing award to Robert Riskin, it brought the directing award to Frank Capra, and it brought the production award to Columbia studios.

The proceedings were interrupted midway so Miss Colbert, who was taking a train for New York, could receive her golden statuette. She kissed Irvin S. Cobb, toastmaster, and said:

"I am afraid I'm going to be very foolish and cry."

Later Cobb said: "This year the Academy felt there was one great, towering figure in the cinema game, one artist among artists, one giant among the trouper."

He ended with the name of Shirley Temple. When the young star came into the spotlight she received the biggest hand of the evening. She also kissed Cobb, and was placed on a stool before the microphone.

"I want to thank you all very much," she said. "Gable was justly cheered, but he merely bowed and smiled as he received his statuette."

Runners-up to Miss Colbert in the Academy's balloting, which now represents a minority of film workers, were Grace Moore for her work in "One Night of Love," and Norma Shearer for "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

Running behind Gable in the men's class were Frank Morgan, who scored in "The Affairs of Cellini," and William Powell for his work in "The Thin Man."

Wiley Post Claims Steel Filings Put Into Plane Engine

(By Associated Press) KANSAS CITY, Feb. 28.—Wiley Post charged today that nearly two pounds of steel filings and powdered emery were placed in the engine of his airplane, probably at the instigation of "another pilot," to cause the failure of his recent projected stratosphere flight across the continent.

Post, here enroute to New York, did not name the pilot, but said he had enough evidence of the alleged sabotage to convince him the foreign matter was placed in the engine of the Winnie Mae deliberately.

The Oklahoman said the substance caused the engine to over-heat dangerously after he had been in the air less than 50 minutes. He made a forced landing, with a full load of gasoline and without landing gear, in the bed of Mudoc dry lake in California.

"Laboratory tests disclosed the presence of the emery and filings in the oil," Post said, referring to an investigation now under way in Los Angeles.

London, Mansfield Prison Heads Are Appointed Today

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28.—Appointment of Thomas C. Jenkins as superintendent of the London Prison farm and Arthur L. Glatke, of Toledo, to succeed him as head of Mansfield reformatory, was announced today by Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director. The appointments are effective immediately.

Jenkins had been chief of the reformatory for 10 years.

Glatke is athletic coach at the Toledo Libbey High school. He is a graduate of Toledo Woodward High school and Wittenberg college. He was a star football player for Wittenberg for several years.

SOMMERS GETS FINE OF $200

Six-Month Jail Sentence Suspended; Goes To County Jail

William Sommers, 21, of Millville, arrested as a "hit-skip" driver in connection with the death of Frank Yurjavic, East Palestine miner, who was found dead in East State last Monday night, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to the county jail for six months when arraigned before Mayor Norman Phillips Wednesday afternoon.

Although the jail term was suspended Sommers was sent to the county prison until the fine was paid. Sommers contends he thought he struck a school "dummy" sign Monday night when the fatal mishap took place.

Huey Long Rushes State Legislation

(By Associated Press) BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 28.—Unfolding more of the real intent of his mass of decreed state legislation, Senator Huey Long today depended upon his obedient Louisiana house of representatives to pass his special legislature session bills and rush them to the senate.

Using his over-riding house majority, he placed his bills in position for final passage by having them advanced to third reading under rule suspension after they were returned from the ways and means committee. He amended one of them to deal another body blow at a political enemy, the New Orleans old regular city government faction.

Missing Men May Have Been Drowned

ADDISON, Mich., Feb. 28.—F. Roy Shaffer of Van Wert, O., former sheriff, expressed a belief today that Ralph C. Raabe, 37, and Orval R. Place, 35, missing Van Wert men, drowned while making a "thrill" trip on the ice of Devil's lake. Searchers continued to drag the lake.

Raabe, an auto agency owner, and Place, a salesman, have been missing since last Friday. They had come to Michigan to buy a new truck at Parma.

The state relief commission today granted additional relief funds to 19 counties for liquidating debts. Columbiana county was given $466 for direct relief bills.

BODY OF YOUTH FOUND IN LAKE AT YOUNGSTOWN

Skull Split Open As If Head Had Been Hit With Axe

CITY DETECTIVES MAKE DISCOVERY

Spot Is Short Distance Away From Where Cap Was Found

(By Associated Press) YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 28.—The body of 13-year-old Frank Suhovecky, missing since Feb. 18, was found today in Lake Cohasset, Mill Creek park, near the mouth of Ax Factory run.

The boy's skull was split from the crown to the back of the neck, as if by a blow from an axe. One of his eyes had been blackened.

The body was found by city detectives, who centered their search at the spot in the lake after Mike Suhovecky, Frank's 28-year-old brother, had received an anonymous letter indicating the body would be found there.

The place where the body was found is several hundred yards from a cabin in which lives a 60-year-old caretaker who was held by police for several days, then released. It was down over a hill from the place where the boy's blood-stained cap and some junk he had salvaged from a dump were found two days after he disappeared.

The body was taken to a hospital for an autopsy.

Coroner David F. Hauser of Mahoning county said after a preliminary examination that there were three or four cuts on the head, all of which were scalp wounds, with no injury to the skull. He said the head wounds alone would not have caused the death.

Frank, a junior high school student, made a date on Feb. 18 with Alex Nagy, a chum, to go to Mill Creek park and salvage a sack full of old pots and pans the boys had dug out of a dump the day before. Alex missed the date and Frank was seen on his way to the park with a sack in which to bring home the junk.

That was the last seen of Frank. His family began a search for him the next day. Police were notified, but a real search was not started until Feb. 21. Since that day, detectives, police and hundreds of interested spectators searched diligently.

Meager clues developed, including the finding of the lad's blood-stained cap, the sack of junk, a 22-caliber rifle shell and a spot in Lake Cohasset indicating a recent break in the ice. An aged caretaker on an estate near the Ax Factory run was detained and questioned by police but released.

The Suhovecky family is poor, all of its grown members being steel workers.

'Dictatorship' Is Cry As Friends of Thomas Plan Fight

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28.—Counsel for Preston E. Thomas, raising the cry "dictatorship," today marshaled their forces for a battle to reinstate him as warden of Ohio penitentiary.

The civil service commission had under advisement Thomas' motion to dismiss Governor Davey's removal order and 17 charges against the former prison head. Governor Davey yesterday named Deputy Warden James C. Woodard, to the position Thomas held for 23 years.

Ralph Kemmons, chairman of the commission, said he was unable to say when the commission will rule on the motion. If the ruling is adverse, he said, Thomas will have until March 7 to appeal.

Thomas' attorneys objected strenuously to anyone outside the attorney general's office representing the state. Morton Neipp of Toledo, law partner of Frazier Reams who conducted the prison investigation, appeared before the commission for Reams. The commission overruled the objection.

Paul M. Herbert, attorney for Thomas, asserted:

"Attorney General John W. Bricker has been completely ignored. This is a flagrant violation of the law. If any governor can name any attorney to handle its cases in any way it sees fit, then dictatorship is not far off."

Herbert asserted he intended to seek an injunction, if necessary, to restrain anyone not connected with the attorney general's office from handling the case for the state.

Troubles Hound Jimmy Walker

Threatened by trouble with police regulations and hailed into court in London by creditors, dapper James J. Walker, right, former mayor of New York, announced that he was without means and that the expenses of his second honeymoon trip had been paid by his second wife, the former actress, Betty Compton, left. Mrs. Janet Walker, inset, now at Miami Beach, Fla., said that she "still has a great affection and admiration for Jimmy and will do whatever she can to help him." He is expected to return to United States later this year.

Potter Conferees Are 'Still Talking'

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28.—A conference of representatives of the National Brotherhood of Operative Pottery and the United States Pottery association to discuss union demands for a 25 per cent wage increase in the pottery industry went into its third day today.

LINDY RANSOM BILLS REPORTED

Passed at Airport; Flier Is Hooted At Hauptmann Rally

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Bruno Hauptmann's defense fund was richer today by more than $2,000, the contribution of thousands of wildly enthusiastic Germans who stormed a rally in his behalf.

Meanwhile the American Airlines Inc. confirmed reports that Lindbergh ransom bills were passed at its East Boston airport. Federal agents professed ignorance of the matter but the Aviation company said it had turned over to the federal authorities a list of all passengers in and out of Boston from last Saturday to Monday, since it did not know on what trip the money had been passed.

Two Bills Identified

It said two $10 bills were identified as ransom money.

The Germans' donation will be added to $15,000 previously raised to appeal Hauptmann's conviction on a charge of killing the Lindbergh baby, who was stolen from his crib three years ago tomorrow.

The little country courtroom where Hauptmann stood trial was no more jammed to the point of suffocation than was the Yorkville casino last night. Police estimated as high as 5,000, with 3,000 more milling outside.

Officers had to protect Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, wife of the condemned man, from women who pressed around her as she made her way to the platform.

Mrs. Hauptmann brought a message from the death house at Trenton, N. J. She told her hearers that Hauptmann sent his thanks to "all who can feel for us."

German Center

The rally was held in Yorkville, center of New York's German-born population, which in 1930 totaled more than 237,000.

Each person admitted was charged 25 cents and a box two feet square was piled almost a foot deep with contributions, some of them $20 bills.

Defense Attorney Edward J. Reilly was loudly cheered and applauded, while each reference to Colonel Lindbergh and to New Jersey's attorney general, David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted the carpenter, was greeted with boos and jeers.

STEUBENVILLE HIT BY BLAZE

Department Store Is Destroyed; Bank, Theater Are Damaged

(By Associated Press) STEUBENVILLE, Feb. 28.—Fire licking through the center of the business district destroyed a three-story department store and badly damaged a theater, a bank, and two other stores before being brought under control early today.

Fire Chief Edward Green estimated the damage at $300,000. Eleven persons, including Chief Green, were overcome by smoke as departments from ten neighboring cities and towns fought for hours to halt the flames. It was the worst fire in Steubenville in 15 years.

Chief Green, a former president of the state firemen's association, was reported in a serious condition today. He was severely bruised in a fall on an icy sidewalk, was overcome by smoke and is suffering from exposure. He is 45.

Dr. Joseph W. Schultz, an ophthalmologist, suffered a severed artery in a leg when struck by falling glass. His wife, Helen, was overcome by smoke. They had gone to Dr. Schultz's office in one of the buildings damaged by fire, to save records.

The firemen were handicapped by a high wind and a temperature of about 5 above zero which caused streets to become sheeted with ice.

Five Escape Death

Five firemen ran out from under a high wall seconds before it crashed in a shower of sparks. Firemen and business men were kept busy putting out small fires which started in other structures from sparks and embers thrown high into the air.

The fire burned the rear of the

Chicken Bone New Handicap To Singer

THREE SIGN ORDER REMOVING WARDEN, EFFECTIVE MARCH 6

Charges Donahay Served As Constable While Concurrently Holding the Position of Dog Warden

SALEM MAN IS PLANNING FIGHT

Edward Sullivan of Leetonia Is Endorsed By Democratic Patronage Committee At Meeting Here

Edward Sullivan of Leetonia was endorsed for the position of county dog warden, now held by C. E. Donahay of Salem, by the Democratic county patronage committee at a meeting last night at the Memorial building.

The endorsement came shortly after the county commissioners had signed an order calling for the removal of Donahay, effective March 6.

The committee also endorsed Dr. J. T. Williamson of East Liverpool for appointment as member of the state medical board.

Approximately 45 members of the party attended the dinner and meeting, held under auspices of the Democratic county executive committee.

C. V. Beatty of East Liverpool, county chairman, presided. A resolution was approved authorizing the dispatch of telegrams to Senators Bulkley and Donahay urging them to support President Roosevelt in the dispute involving the McCarran prevailing wage amendment before the senate in connection with the works relief bill.

A number of guests were present, including Judge Albert Carris of Ravenna, chairman of the Portage county Democratic committee; Meritt Patch of Ravenna, secretary; Fred L. Baehle of New Philadelphia, state highway engineer for division No. 11; and H. L. Aldrich of New Philadelphia, district auditor for the motor vehicle department.

A copy of these charges was filed last night with Donahay, and also with the Civil Service Commission.

Donahay will demand a hearing. The rulings of the Civil Service commission provide that employees under civil service be given a reasonable time in which to make and file an explanation, and that a discharged employee can appeal to the Civil Service commission.

Donahay was appointed to the office by former County Auditor Elmer E. Walker, and retained in the position by Auditor John H. Irwin.

Akron Notre Dame Athlete Sues For Misuse of Picture

AKRON, Feb. 28.—Albert T. Costello, a senior at Notre Dame university, charged in a $50,000 damage suit filed here that his picture in a mail order catalogue cost him his place on the Notre Dame football team.

Costello alleged in the petition that he was a member of the first team until his picture appeared on the sporting goods pages of a Sears, Roebuck & company's catalogue. Publication of the picture was unauthorized, the petition said, and caused him to be subjected to ridicule and criticism by his friends.

Old Pep Talk

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 28.—I get a kick out of Mussolini. Now today he says that he has so many millions and is ready for the world. Now he ain't talking to the world at all; he is talking to keep his own folks steamed up. He don't want war. His record shows that he don't. And it's because he is ready for it, he hasn't had any.

I think he is too smart to go in there and even conquer this Abs-Dab-Ba country. He would lose a lot of friends if he pounces on that country, and besides Mussolini likes to do these things just to devil the life out of France. He has kidded France seriously more than any man alive.

Yours,

Will Rogers

NO AVALANCHE

There's uncertainty regarding the location of the country's favor in the President's dispute with the senate over the work relief bill. Mr. Roosevelt withdrew to Hyde Park to let public opinion have its effect on senators who voted against him on the McCarran amendment for prevailing wage rates. Senators thus exposed to the anger of the President's friends report there has been no avalanche of protest. Mr. Roosevelt is supposed to have been informed by leaders of his party in congress, however, that things are coming along nicely.

This may be a sign of the apparently unavoidable ignorance of popular feeling which handicaps every president. Five minutes apiece with two dozen ordinary citizens would convince Mr. Roosevelt that he could not frighten congress honestly with public opinion on the work relief bill. Opinion is neither preponderantly on one side nor the other. It seems to be wavering uncertainly in the middle. There is a feeling that the best way to dispose of the problem would be to table it. The country is not demanding a work relief bill at any cost. Only a little discussion was sufficient to disclose serious doubt as to the practicality of such a bill.

Why, then, is President Roosevelt placing so much stress on it? The answer is obvious. The work relief bill is the high spot of the recovery program for 1935. Unless the administration can get it through congress it will have nothing new to offer. Social security legislation, which partakes of the same nature, is of no immediate use. It will not sweeten the tempers of the hordes of soreheads who need nothing but an excuse to vilify Mr. Roosevelt as enthusiastically as lately they were praising him. The senate has given a broad hint of crumbling new deal support. There are other disconcerting signs of wavering enthusiasm.

The $4,800,000 work relief bill is the first strictly new deal proposal to encounter opposition strong enough to threaten an administrative defeat. It is impossible to overestimate its importance to President Roosevelt. Defeat would terminate the end of the new deal spending policy. Passage under presidential disapproval would be a severe blow to Mr. Roosevelt's personal prestige. Passage, on his terms, would signify an indefinite continuation of his prestige and the policies which his prestige makes possible.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

The vexing question of what should be done with Babe Ruth has been disposed of, at least temporarily. The former great batsman will go with the Boston Braves as outfielder, assistant manager and second vice president. Baseball fans can go back now to normal days of living.

This is a satisfactory arrangement. It gives Babe Ruth a chance to continue his baseball career in a city which is especially fond of him. It gives a hard pressed club the remaining drawing power of baseball's greatest name. The Braves need half a dozen Babe Ruths.

It gives the National league a chance to profit from the twilight years of a career which made hundreds of thousands of dollars for the American league. It even gives the ball club which exploited the famous star a chance to get rid of him without seeming too ungrateful. The Yankees seem to feel they will do better with a younger man in his place.

Babe Ruth, according to all reports, is wealthy. He has become, moreover, a shrewd manager in these later years of his earning power. Professional baseball has been a profitable business for him, as it is for most of the men engaged in it.

For this reason, attempts to sentimentalize over a phase of his career which has been approaching for years seem somewhat abortive. It is one instance in which the American urge to meddle in every public idol's personal business would better be squelched. Babe Ruth has a very good chance to get along very nicely if his admirers only will stop fussing about him. There are, after all, lots worse places to be than with the Boston Braves. America's baseball hero isn't asking for a general show of crying towels, and he doesn't deserve it.

THE STARS SAY

For Friday, March 1

A day of great activity and possible commotion and turbulence is forecast from the prevailing lunar and mutual configurations of the inciting planets. While there are auguries of some definite progress in the direction of fulfilled ambitions and the launching of new projects, yet these are beset by the danger of rash, impetuous and ill-advised conduct or passionate indulgences.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of great activity, excitement and turmoil, possibly in connection with the launching of new projects. There would be some measure of success in this by dealing through tact, diplomacy and strategy, and with rings, combines or secret bodies, rather than through means of bodies, rather than through means of unwisdom, aggression, impetuosity and strife.

A child born on this day may be talented, aggressive, constructive, but prone to turbulence, strife and self-indulgence.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Gelett Burgess is last of the Mohicans in Paris. He clings to his Boulevard Raspail flat and daily sips his vesperal aperitif on the Dome terrace a few blocks away. He gazes upon a Montparnasse from which all Americans have fled. Yet stays on and on.

Just now he's polishing the final chapters of a novel. There's another he wants to write before he seeks the chimney corner. It will begin: "She fell instantly in love with him because of his beard." Burgess has a passion for clocks that makes his work room a whirl of ticktocks.

Scattered about his writing table are a dozen and there are two or three in every room. In the hall three gaunt specimens. He went to Paris nine years ago for a little change and rest. Perhaps what he saw in a recent gazing from his boulevard window helped to keep him there.

In an hour, he jotted down these: Old man waiting alone on the sidewalk. Raymond Duncan in his Greek garb. A poet on a bench making love to a girl on either side. A monocled, tweedy maid borrowing a light from a cigarette smoking gendarme. A sidewalk busker blowing a tin whistle through his nose.

The tennis player Bill Tilden is crack showman in the field of sports. He can dramatize shedding a sweater. No person is able to galvanize an audience into a worshipping gallery that hangs on every gesture as this veteran of the courts. When he leaves the game with a blazer across his shoulder, Madison Square Garden has been frequently changed into a cheering, standing mob.

That an author can succeed in spite of a name that incites ridicule has been proved by Oliver Onions, who rates among the six top English novelists. Editors in America and abroad have frequently implored him to chuck the ungainly monicker. But he's a Yorkshire man and stubborn. The humor of the situation is that his grandfather was an O'Nion. Even the author's wife, a prolific scribbler for the flaps, calls herself Mrs. Oliver Onions, a dour fellow, began his career as a poster artist and between jobs once wrote a short story which sold immediately. He put away his paints for all time.

The back drop of authoring is etched with skyrocket upshoot as well as duds that fall with a faint pink. John Monk Saunders, I believe, sold the first fiction story he ever wrote to Cosmopolitan. Michael Arlen's first novel was accepted three days after presented. Don Clarke sold his first four novels as fast as he could turn them out. Hendrik Van Loon's "History of Mankind," which he did for his own amusement, became one of the best sellers in the world.

We veered off a hip of Chatham Square on a recent night of snow storm into the narrow twist of Chinatown. Against building walls every half block stood a lone and shivering figure, whose face bore mute testimony to sudden reality. Too early for the missions to open, there was no place to go. The meaneast dive would bar them. One thought of cattle dotting a blizzard-swept range. When white mer drift to Chinatown permanently, they have boxed the outcast compass. Nowhere are they welcome save the missions. Even the little Chinese children edge from the human leas as though they might be devils. Infested. One, of whom I inquired: "Are you all right, buddy?" replied with a cold glance, shrugged and moved a few steps away. His eyes blazed the terror of a trapped animal.

Thingumbobs. James Joyce spends his leisure talking to friends on the telephone in Paris, of all places. Frank Vanderlip never smoked tobacco until he had passed 40. . . . Clare Sheridan recently ducked a banquet speech when she learned no newspapermen were present. . . . Joe Davison has modeled more heads of celebrities than any sculptor living but sold only four. . . . Gertrude Lawrence calls young Fairbanks "Kippo". . . . Caroline Wells, who writes shudders, has a mechanical gibbet with a drop on her desk. . . . Eddie Dowling was once a $3 cabin boy on the ill-fated Lusitania. . . . Ben Ali Haggit returned to the theatre recently as director. It was an artistic success but box office flop.

I like the late Richard Washburn Child's story of "the fellow who tried to make the lady on his right at a dinner believe he wasn't a bit swacked, said he: "I may be under the effluence of inkahol but I'm not as thick as you drink I am."

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

In 1914, as the world gradually moved toward war, no one in Europe realized what was happening or going to happen.

In 1915, as this country moved toward the result of various theories, experiments and efforts, nobody has the vaguest idea of what is really about to happen.

Almost anything might happen. It is possible, and fortunately probable, that what has happened before will happen again, that business and industry will gradually find their way back to normal, and, with officially shortened hours making labor scarce, the slogan may change from "let the government support me" to "give me a chance to work, and climb to the top."

That may come, and something very different may come. Once in so often it is necessary for nations and individuals to learn wisdom through first-class failure. That may be on the program for this country at this moment. The wise man will make his arrangements.

TIME PASSES quickly, age comes, soon if you depend for success on muscles, legs, arms or eyes. Fifteen years ago Babe Ruth, "home run king," was bought by the "Yankees" for $125,000, highest price ever paid up to that time for a baseball player.

Now, only 41 years old, he is released and goes to the "Boston Braves," who are not asked to pay even a penny for the man that has drawn millions of men and dollars to the club that "owned" him.

FORTUNATE are they whose "over to earn a living resides inside their skulls. Tully was painting magnificently when he died of plague, past ninety. Voltaire was one past eighty when all Paris united to honor his brilliant intellect and "kill him with kindness."

Goethe was over seventy when he wrote the second part of "Faust," and one of the greatest French writers, who established a new French prose style, was past eighty-five when he wrote the book that made him famous. Brains are more reliable than muscles for a long career.

FROM THE Windward Islands comes an account of an excursion boat capsizing, with "fears that sharks had eaten thirty-four that disappeared."

The theory that sharks will not attack human beings does not hold in warm waters, where sharks are numerous and long swimming has tired the victim.

John Tyndall, walking home beside a swamp, looking at a crayfish, effected as he walked along. "If I should fall into the swamp, John Tyndall would become part of the brain of a crayfish, whereas if I took a few of the fish home and ate them, they would become part of the brain of John Tyndall."

Matter is marvelously interchangeable. If thirty-four drowned off the Windward Islands were eaten by sharks, they are, by now, part of numerous shark brains.

IF YOU worry about our brood of racketeers, criminals, torturers, murderers, you may find comfort or future generations in the descendants of the crew of the ship "Bounty" that mutinied, turned their officers adrift on the Pacific Ocean, and settled on Pitcairn island, lone-ome, desolate.

Dr. H. L. Shapiro, anthropologist in New York's Museum of Natural History, having visited the island.

FAULT-FINDERS

Mr. L. S. Peace, New England publisher is not a fault-finder. But as a frequent visitor to New York, his letter makes a point of interest.

"While I don't think I'm easy to please, I have only praise for your service... but doesn't your guarantee of 100% satisfaction subject you to unreasonable demands by chronic fault-finders?"

From the private files of the McAlpin
Well, our answer is that we have yet to be embarrassed. Never have we had a complaint that wasn't instantly and easily adjusted. The entire McAlpin staff is "on its toes," day and night, to maintain 100% service in every detail. So, if you'll pardon our pride, we repeat, "We even welcome fault-finders."

Bone Injury May Not Be Known

WHEN A BONE becomes infected and diseased the condition is known as "osteomyelitis." As a rule, the infection can be traced to an injury received from a blow or fall. It is more apt to occur in young and active persons and unfortunately is a condition often overlooked.

Children are sometimes slow to complain of pain or discomfort, especially if they have injured themselves while at play. The mother may disregard the symptoms or think the pain is due to rheumatism. She may even call the trouble "growing pains."

There is no such thing as "growing pains." If a child complains of pain in the arms, hips or legs, it warrants careful attention. It should arouse the suspicion of osteomyelitis or some other disorder.

Symptoms of Disease
At the beginning of the infection the sufferer complains not alone of severe pain, but also of headache, fever and chills. At times, nausea, vomiting and even delirium may be present. The fever is characteristic in that it is the "up-and-down type." A record of this sort is medically termed the "septic curve." The fever is high and then it drops down only to rise again.

Clean Out
Kidney Poisons

Wash Out Your 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes

If kidneys don't pass 3 pints a day and get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters may become clogged with poisonous waste and the danger of acid poisoning is greatly increased. Bladder passages are difficult, which often smart and burn like scalding water and cause discomfort.

This acid condition, brought about by poor kidney functions is a danger signal and may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

Most people watch their bowels which contain only 27 feet of intestines but neglect the kidneys which contain 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters. If these tubes or filters become clogged with poisons, it may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't run any risk. Make sure your kidneys empty 3 pints a day.

Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, an old prescription, which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

The injured bone is exceedingly sensitive and tender. The slightest motion or handling the affected limb causes suffering. When the pain is vague it is difficult to locate the exact seat of the trouble.

Under such circumstances it is advisable to resort to the X-ray. This will show the swelling and indicate the presence of infection of the bone. This method of examination is of great importance in making the diagnosis and in deciding on the proper treatment.

Abstract of Bone Marrow
In reality, osteomyelitis is an infection or localized abscess of the bone marrow. Similar to an abscess anywhere in the body, it can only be drained by operation. The bone is exposed and the abscess incised. This provides adequate drainage, with evacuation of the accumulated pus. The operation should never be delayed. If it is this permits spread of the pus and leads to further destruction of the bone.

When osteomyelitis is neglected it may become necessary to resort to several incisions in order properly to evacuate the pus. Repeated operations are sometimes necessitated before the diseased bone is cleared of all infection. Such radical means are needed only when the disease is overlooked in its first stages.

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

CHAPTER XXXIV

The ship's bell of the Kermadec sounded; the tones drew her eyes again to the beach. She saw Mark glance with a spasmodic movement at the declining sun, and then at his watch. And then the black boys were pushing at the prau, and Mark was stepping into it, and he was moving, followed by a wake of sunset-glowing ripples, out toward the broad Pacific.

Vanya watched him almost incredulously; that he should desert her now! From the beginning of the argument she had been praying for a miracle, for a revelation to be granted Mark in a little longer. Yet there he sailed; and she was the same cruel, cold, and heartless Mark Talbot he had been from the beginning.

She eyed the glass of wine, a mood of desperation came over her. "I hope it's poisoned!" she thought wildly. She seized the glass, raised it in a mocking toast. For a moment the fading daylight gleamed amber through it.

"To decency!" she cried. "To the honor of the gentleman!" She blinked at her in slow puzzlement as she drained the glass to the last too-sweet drop.

Percy Loring, sprawled under his tree, watched Mark's departure with as much emotion as his capacity offered. He had lost the power to feel anything deeply, but he had liked Mark, and this departure of his was like a standing, after all, by his own ultimatum.

"Nothing to be done," he thought. "Vanya! Take any of my sympathy as sarcasm. Best thing is to start on that quart of mine, while Shene needs me at the piano. That gives me the whp hand, for once!"

He stroiled into the Diver's Helmet on silent barfooted treads. It seemed deserted, then he spied Hong's broad back in the doorway beyond the piano; he was carrying something. And Shene's voice growled: "Over on that!" he was saying. An instant more and the pair of them were emerging into the bar room. Shene paused, and started perceptibly, at the sight of Loring.

"What do you want?" he bellowed. "An advance on the quart you owe me."

"You won't get it tonight!" "Then you'll play the piano, Shene." The beachcomber glanced casually around the room. "Fine laugh a room-full of customers will have at your efforts!"

His eye fell on the two glasses on the table with the dregs of wine coloring their bottoms.

"Hello! Who's been drinking?" "I have," roared Shene.

"With whom?" "With Hong, you lousy scum!"

"That," said Loring, "doesn't sound reasonable, and I reject your explanation because I find that in practically all cases, whatever you say is a lie."

He advanced a step, and leaned on the corner of the bar.

"Where's Vanya?" he asked. "How do I know? Gone with your friend Talbot!"

"No," said the beachcomber. "She didn't go."

"Then she's in her room. Or down the beach!"

"What's in there?" queried Loring, motioning toward the room from which Hong and Shene had emerged.

"Nothing, you filthy bum! And get out of here!"

"Mind if I look?" asked the beachcomber, with a mild smile on his lips.

He stepped forward; the giant Shene barred his way with a deep growl of rage.

"You're getting out!" he rumbled. Loring fell back; he knew it was utterly useless to attempt to pass the colossal Shene aided by the massive Hong. Yet he was determined to verify his suspicions of some harm or danger to Vanya.

"Mark!" he shouted suddenly. "Mark Talbot!"

The chances were thousands to one that Mark was out of carabot, but he might rouse some one on the Kermadec. Worth trying, anyway.

Shene answered with an irate bellow. He lunged for the emaciated form of the beachcomber, his great hands stretched forward. The concentrated hatred born of many insults, of songs of deride that sailors were singing in far ports, shone in his small eyes.

Loring whipped out his single domestic implement—the knife he used in gathering his provender of fruit. He flicked toward the door with the point of the blade directed at Shene's throat. He backed slowly, cautiously. From the corner of his eye, he saw the vast form of Hong moving to cut off his escape. He turned with a movement cat-like in his rapidity, and planted his bare foot with a power of his leg in the tremendous stomach of the Chinaman. Hong groaned and sat suddenly on the floor—but he sat with his back against the screen door. Loring had no time to waste in an effort to open it; he was trapped by the giant Shene.

TWO—THURSDAY STORY

The huge dive-keeper had paused when Loring ceased his retreat toward the door, and stood just out of reach of his opponent's arm; Shene had no wish to brave the knife! He edged toward the bar; Loring interpreted his move and stepped to forestall it.

"A gun behind the bar," he grinned. "You're not smart enough, Shene!"

But the other had not yet exhausted his means; he backed suddenly away from Loring, and darted heavily toward the far end of the bar.

He was coming around from the other side.

The beachcomber's sled deliberately behind his own end of the massive bar; halfway down the narrow space he saw Shene fumbling desperately among a mass of bottles and glasses on the shelf. Loring gripped his knife and advanced with a strange smile on his bearded face; one might have judged him completely happy as he burst into a great, shouting song.

But she couldn't rise. Her knees were unresponsive; her arms refused to pull her from the chair. Then a humorous thought flashed through the returning darkness.

"You're cheated!" she said to Shene. "Anyway, you're cheated!" She had remembered the pearls.

The room blurred and darkened, she realized vaguely that her head was lying on her arm on the table top. Then some one had pulled her erect in the chair; her head fell back as hands fumbled at the neck of her robe.

"What the deuce!" she heard Shene roar. "She's got on her dancing togs!"

There was little more; the darkness had become very nearly complete. She heard distant, inchoate voices, like those in dreams.

"Get her out of sight!" "they come!" "take her shoulders!"

"I'll take legs—"

Cagney, O'Brien Teamed In Friday's Feature; Fine Film At State Tonight

THE hot headed pals of "Here Comes the Navy" are at it again.
This time Jimmy Cagney and Pat
O'Brien are at each other's throats in a thrilling, laugh-packed story called "Devil Dogs of the Air" and with the two Irish lads is the third member of the trio in the former picture, Frank McHugh.

"Devil Dogs of the Air" has more thrills than "Here Comes the Navy" which puts it in a class by itself. It presents dare devil stunts by flying marines that are really magnificent. A dozen battle ships participate in naval maneuvers. Airplanes zoom and zip through the air
with their pilots doing daring stunts and then dropping off into space in their parachutes. For those who like excitement and enjoy watching airplane maneuvers, this film should certainly please. And for those who like comedy, again it should rank high, for Cagney, O'Brien and McHugh guarantee plenty of laughs.

Third Service Film

The picture was produced with the active cooperation of the U. S. military authorities with hundreds of marines providing background.
There have been three recent successful—"Flirtation Walk", depicting life at West Point. "Here Comes the Navy" showing how the marine corps live and work and finally "Devil Dogs of the Air" dealing with the air forces of the Navy.

Cagney has a fine role as a fresh youth who joins the marines because he can't keep out of air ships.
He gets into the aviation corps
through the kindness of a marine officer from his home town and rewards that officer by stealing his girl. With O'Brien as the officer it is inevitable that the scenes will recount with wise cracks, battles and fast talk at which both stars are masters. Margaret Lindsay is the heart interest in the role of a waitress who is the darling of the corps and O'Brien's sweetheart—until Cagney comes along.

Good Film Tonight

THE State shows a fine film this evening — "Bordertown", starring Paul Muni with Bette Davis and Margaret Lindsay as his leading ladies. The story is positively startling in its emotional intensity and all three stars do splendid work. The supporting cast, too, is good, headed by Eugene Pallette and including Robert Barra, Henry O'Neill, Hobart Cavanaugh and Gavin Gordon.

Miss Davis Scores

Bette Davis has the part of the fiery adventuress who slays her husband, partner of Muni, in the hope of winning the love of the younger man. She is fine, especially in the scene where she vents her fury, the fury of a woman scorned, on the man she loves by accusing him of the murder she has committed. Miss Lindsay, capable always, plays the other woman, a society girl out for a thrill by flirting with the sambler—but he falls in love with her and therein lies the fact that brings about the tragic climax.

James Cagney

Cagney has a fine role as a fresh
youth who joins the marines because he can't keep out of air ships.
He gets into the aviation corps
through the kindness of a marine
officer from his home town and rewards that officer by stealing his girl. With O'Brien as the officer

heart—until Cagney comes along.

Salem Faces Titular Battle Friday Night With Struthers Team

Victory For Quakers Will Bring N. E. O. Big Six League Championship; Brownmen Defend Home Record Against Strong Foe

By RAY L. DEAN, News Sports Editor

Coach Herb Brown's Quaker basketball tossers are pacing the local hardwood in practice drills these afternoons for they have a final game to stage before the home folks here Friday night when they meet Struthers five in the final seasonal encounter.

Struthers, coached by Denny Schill, only last Friday upset the Alliance High Aviators, 27-21, and will come here intent on giving the Salemites a merry tussle. Schill, a former Edinboro-Wallace college athlete, has been developing teams noted for their clean, hard play.

Salem, by winning over Struthers tomorrow night, will clinch the Northeastern Ohio Big Six league crown. A reverse on the home boards would force the Quakers to share the title with the Massillon High Tigers. Struthers at present is in third place in the loop.

If the Brownmen win over Struthers they will have been undefeated in home games this season. In tackling Struthers the Brownmen also will be after their 16th victory of the current campaign. Salem lost only two games this season, the first to Dover's Crimson five and later to an upset to Alliance. The Quakers, however, drubbed the Aviators soundly in a return tilt.

One Struthers player, George Schaeffer, tipoff artist, is expected to give Charlie Palmer a battle for it and is certain to be a much-watched individual. Schaeffer also is runnerup in scoring in the N. E. O. league to date with 146 points in 17 games. In the game with Alliance Schaeffer added six points to his record on one field goal and four charity throws.

Studebakers Face Akron Plumbers

The Studebakers have been paired against the Akron Woodlocks Plumbers for a game at 8:30 p. m. The Studebakers will take eight players to the Rubber City including Mike and Wally Lander, Cutler, Early, Nedelka, Flip, McQuillen and Catlin.

Other contenders, besides Salem, will come from Youngstown, Mansfield, Canton, Alliance, Warren, Cuyahoga Falls and Cleveland. The tournament will continue through Sunday.

Boston Braves Wonder What Position Ruth Will Play

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 28.—There's one major problem concerning Babe Ruth that worries Bill McKeechie, manager of the Braves, now that he's acquired the greatest slugger in baseball history. What position will the Bambino play?

It's an open secret that Ruth, who started as a left hand pitcher, developed into a great defensive outfielder as well as a puvriting clouter, always has longed to play first base.

But for the fact that the Yankees boast one of the greatest of all first basemen in Lou Gehrig, Struthers regulars include: Yash, high scoring forward; Brennard, another capable forward; Schaeffer, center; Allgood and Brodron, guards. Kimmel is the best substitute forward. Coach Schill has another center in Harkins.

Charles McCloskey, Salem star, undoubtedly will be back in the picture this week. He didn't get to play in the Salem-Niles game here last Saturday until the fourth period.

Struthers record: Opponents 9 31—Massillon. 26 24—Brookfield. 38 18—Ursuline. 30 27—Alumni. 25 31—Youngstown South. 31 19—Youngstown East. 15 32—Lowellville. 25 24—Niles. 48 41—East Palestine. 37 12—Warren. 14 23—Rayen. 25 15—East Palestine. 22 44—Ursuline. 20 36—Barberton. 22 44—Lowellville. 36 28—Boardman. 20 29—Chaney. 27 21—Alliance.

High Tournaments Echo In State

Big Parade Starts Toward Class B Championship

By FRITZ HOWELL, Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Feb. 28.—The big parade toward the Ohio high school basketball championship gets under way tomorrow, with more than 5,000 boys representing 999 Class "B" schools, taking part in county title tournaments.

Several counties which have numerous schools started the title fight a week ago, but will complete the play this weekend. Championships will be decided in all counties except Knox, where a scarf fever "scarf" is holding up activities.

If county health officials agree, the Knox county teams will get to either Thursday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

One Protest Heard

Up to date only one protest has been filed. A team late for its game at Mansfield last weekend was ruled out. Commissioner H. R. Townsend of the Ohio High School Athletic association ruled today that the forfeiture must stand.

Next week 33 sectional tournaments will be held. Some counties will send more than one team to the sectional events, one entry being allowed in the higher classification for each of the county tournaments. The sectional events are slated March 7, 8 and 9, and both Class "A" and Class "B" quintets will participate.

The central districts will hold sectional events a week later. The northeastern and northwestern districts will send two Class "A" and two Class "B" teams to the state tournament, while the other four districts will send one team in each classification. This, eight Class "A" teams will battle for the title now held by Dayton (Roosevelt), and the same number will try to wrest the Class "B" crown from the "Wonders" of Waterloo.

Mountain Takes Oberlin

Mountain Union defeated Oberlin 51 to 41 after trailing the entire first half.

Coach Paul Landis of Bowling Green kept two of his regulars on the bench because of what he called "fraternity politics" and Bowling Green lost to Toledo, 22 to 30.

Coach Landis said several days ago that fraternity politics had disrupted his team and that he intended to change the lineup.

Oberlin defeated Denison 36 to 29 in one of those story book endings. With five minutes to go the score was tied at 28-all. Christman, Denison Guard, was put out of the game on fouls and Oberlin scored eight points from there on.

Western Reserve defeated John Carroll, 32 to 22.

Reserve scored 38 of its points in the last half.

New tricks should be a simple compared to deciding who Ruth would replace in the Braves' outfield.

Wally Berger, a star in his own right, heavy hitter and fine defensive player, is a fixture in center. Hal Lee, getting better each year, has had left field all to himself.

Randy Moore, who has been playing right field, is one of the most valuable players on a club that is not overburdened with reserves. He has played the outfield, third base and can catch if necessary, meanwhile hitting consistently in all these places.

"Plenty of room for Ruth all right," says Bill, "but where?"

Folly of Waterloo May Affect Cage Schedules of Ohio Teams Next Season

By RALPH TEATSORTH, United Press Staff Correspondent

One of the most vehement objectors to Waterloo High school's "suicide" basketball schedule is the coach of a university team in Ohio. He declares that a schedule of around 50 games, such as Waterloo will play this season, can bring naught but physical and mental harm to the players.

This college coach would not permit his own team of almost mature youths to play more than 20 games a season. Yet, he points out, a group of adolescent high school boys are allowed to play a schedule of two or three times as many games as any college team.

There is a note of irony in this coach's criticism. As a high school player, he was a member of a team that played 40 games in one season.

This does not detract from the wisdom of his assertion, however. A father often flogs his son for doing things that were his own boyhood delight.

Champs Last Year

Waterloo, class B champions of Ohio last year and one of the best drawing cards in state basketball history, has capitalized in full on its peculiar ability and the publicity it received. The players have been called upon to play several games a week, make frequent trips, and make their scholastic work secondary to basketball.

Critics of over-emphasis in amateur sports usually are tagged as meddling old fools. But in a case where the health and social welfare of a group of 16 to 17-year-old boys are involved, one must think twice before he condemns these critics.

Waterloo has impaired seriously its chances of winning the state scholastic title again this year. The team suffered a noticeable let-down in late games. Some of its zip and stamina is gone. Players don't think as fast when they are physically tired. In hard tournament play, this handicap may be more apparent.

As a result of Waterloo's folly, Ohio high schools probably will limit basketball schedules next season.

Davis Cup Duty Draws Youngsters

Allison, Wood and Van Ryn Form Nucleus

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The nucleus of America's 1935 Davis cup team already has been formed with Wilmer Allison, Sidney B. Wood, Jr., and John Van Ryn holding invitations to be members of this country's squad for the international competition.

Supplementing this trio are three youngsters, Donald Budge, Gene Mako and Frank Parker, who have been placed under the fatherly eye of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

It is probable the six players will be banded together for America's first match against China's cup holders. All of them may be sent to England for European zone play.

Wood's selection carries with it a single assignment. Allison, who heads the first ten, may be used either for singles or as a doubles partner of Van Ryn.

In event the youngsters are sent abroad, Budge and Mako may be used for doubles duty in which event Allison would play singles.

Overhired Van Ryn and Allison would have the doubles call as a more experienced combination.

The purpose of holding Parker would be to afford him international singles experience.

Budge and Mako are the third ranking doubles pair in the country.

Pennzip Girls Falter Before Akron LaMar Lassies; Salem Chinas Defeated by Sebring Limoges and Christians Cop Church League Title

Four cage games were played Wednesday night on the Memorial hall hardwood, with the main attractions featuring two leading Salem teams pitted against out-of-town foes. The visitors took both matches.

The Salem Pennzip Girls, after staging a hard fight in the first half to lead 13 to 10, tripped in the last half and lost to the Akron Riggs LaMar five, 25 to 17. The sturdy Salem lassies were able only to score four points after intermission when the LaMars, working under a handicap due to injuries, tossed accurately to take the lead. The Akronites held a 16-15 advantage at the end of the third period.

Barnes and Dewan were best for the Pennzips while Griffith, Brunski and Tillech led the Akron Girls.

Previous to the girls game, the Salem China squad traded baskets with Sebring Limoge Chinas but lost to the visitors after the Sebring five had scored 18 points in the second set. That sport took for them victory because the Salem Chinas scored consistently throughout the game.

McQuillen was high man for the battle with 17 points. Tellow and Erb tossed 13 points respectively for the winners.

The first round championship of the church league went to the Christians last night when Krause dumped in six field goals in a game against the Columbian Juniors. The winners led 18-7 at the half, and finished on top, 30-22.

Hippley, who was best for the losers, and Hanzlick led a late attack by the Columbians which fell short.

The Salem Trojans, a scrappy youngster outfit, turned back the invading East Liverpool Junior Highs in the preliminary, 29 to 15, as Kleon showed a good deal of class in registering 12 points. Smith was the leader for the Potters with seven marks.

HITLER LIFTS JEWISH FIGHT

Economic Pressure Snags Der Fuhrer's Anti-Semi-itism Policy

By A. D. STEFFERUD.
(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—Intense economic pressure, it became apparent today, has forced Reichsfuhrer Hitler to abandon for the present at least the public manifestations of his cherished anti-Semitism policy.

This tendency was indicated definitely in the remarks of speakers at a meeting of political leaders and Nazi party members in which the reich's economic problems were discussed.

While berating Jews as "vampires and exploiters," speakers concluded their addresses by saying: "It may be asked of you why the administration undertakes nothing more against the Jews. It cannot for foreign policy reasons, since further boycotts, foreign exchange difficulties and other troubles are thereby threatened."

"Therefore, you must go about and spread what you have been told here and act accordingly."

Economic Risk
Behind this and similar developments was seen the strong influence of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, minister of economics, who in fighting Germany's terrific economic battle cannot risk further boycotts and loss in bills of exchange.

He is compelled to avoid these hazards to the reich's economic stability even though it may involve scrapping the clause that in the early days of Hitler's appearance on the political scene won possibly more adherents to his program than any of the other 23 planks in the Nazi program.

Dr. Schacht, who has emerged with increased prestige from several similar encounters over questions of policy in the last three months, has kept a Jew at the head of his foreign exchange department. He also has been quoted as saying he would stand by his other Jewish co-workers.

The minister of economics yesterday assured the president of the Berlin Merchants association that "nothing further will happen to any member of your organization." Many Jews are enrolled in the association.

LIFE OF OHIO RELIEF TO END

All Workers May Automatically Be Jobless
At Midnight

"Direct relief," he charged, "is costing more than 10 per cent for administration. If the money had been properly applied, 156 miles of road could have been built in Athens county."

The house approved a bill continuing for another year a law authorizing bond issues for certain types of relief. The vote was 104 to 2.

Meets Snag In Senate
The house also approved the bill to continue the life of the relief commission, before it met the snag in the senate.

Democratic efforts to obtain senate approval of the relief commission bill were abandoned when Republicans, seeking to place a relief administration employees under civil service, defeated an emergency clause that would make the measure effective as soon as signed by the governor. Without the emergency section, 90 days would elapse before the bill became effective.

The emergency clause was defeated, 19 yeas to 13 nays, with the members adhering strictly to party lines. A two-thirds favorable vote was necessary for approval.

Democrats are expected to move for reconsideration of the measure when the legislature reconvenes Tuesday.

Republican Floor Leader Whittemore of Akron, leading the fight for the civil service clause, asserted:

"I agree that the re-enactment of this law is of vital importance, but I think these employees should be placed under civil service and see no reason why any one party should be relieved of civil service requirements."

Senator Hermer (D) of Huron county, opposing the civil service amendment, contended the measure was temporary and declared he did not believe civil service in this department was necessary.

Amendment Defeated
The amendment was defeated as the entire Democratic side of the chamber voted in opposition to it.

The day saw the introduction in both houses of a proposed constitutional amendment which virtually would abolish the pre-primary and re-establish the old convention system of nominating candidates for public office. Hermer offered it in the senate and Fairbanks (R) of Clark county in the house.

Reconsidering its action last week in approving a bill by Arnold (R) of Erie county requiring all tax-supported institutions to buy Ohio-made butter, the house defeated the bill by ordering indefinite postponement of it.

A bill exempting interurban railroads from all taxes except real estate and special assessment levies for two more years, was approved by the house, 98 to 7. It was returned to the senate for concurrence in amendments.

The senate approved a bill to permit the state treasurer to place inactive deposits in banks outside Columbus at a lower rate of interest. The vote was 31 to 0.

Sees Lower Prices
COLUMBUS, Feb. 28.—Liquor Director Joseph H. Schobel today predicted lower prices for retail liquor as a result of the U. S. treasury department's ruling that profits from state liquor stores are exempt from the federal income tax. He said that $314,846 the Ohio department set aside last year for payment of the tax now is available to reduce the department's debt.
